The actual puzzles are really small, there are two puzzles per page and they only have about 10 words each. There are 500 puzzles, so it's a fairly thick book. The puzzles are super easy and they are a bit too small to really get into. I would have preferred half the puzzles and have them be a lot bigger with 20 or more words to find. The spiral binding is really nice for flipping between pages.

What a disappointment. I bought 7 Parragon Word Search books several years ago for my 91 year old mom. She really loved the spiral bound books. They were easy to hold and the puzzles were challenging. We were excited to see the new 2015 Spiral bound Big Book of Wordsearch. Well here's what she said: "More is not always better. The old format was better. Each puzzle needs more words to make it challenging. The book is too heavy for old arthritic hands." So there you have it. We are keeping it because it will cost too much to return and she said it is better than nothing.

The book itself was smaller than I thought it would be and the puzzles are two to a page so they are not very large either. But the print is easy to read. And I did not get lost in the puzzles as I search for a word.

This is pretty good word search book. It doest have long list of words to find. Its small, simple qmword search every page. It helps me stay focus not to get bored if it has too many words per puzzle to find.

Great to pass time, learn new things, and keep you updated on subject matters such as artist songs. The only thing is is that it's not many words to each puzzle. Since it is 500 puzzles it will keep you busy. Other than that it is great. Spiral bind is very helpful for people with upper extremity problems like arthritis or neck injuries (Pages will not turn by itself like regular books). I would recommend that it's worth it though. I still love it!

The subjects were not particularly interesting. Other than that, it was OK.

This word search puzzle book is perfect. We love the spiral pages.

Although this book offered 500 puzzles, they were very small both in size and content. The topics were very diverse and not very familiar to someone with an average education. Just not much fun.
